Course Description

Economics is the study of how people use limited resources. In this course, we will examine the decision-making process in using those resources, how markets develop to move those resources, how the government oversees those markets, and how those markets have developed to become global in scope. The course curriculum satisfies the South Carolina state standards in Economics.

The curriculum used in this course is guided by the Economics and Personal Finance 2020 SCSSCCR Standards \(opens in a new window\).
